

Intro: The following program may contain strong language to some viewers. This is based on a true story.

Hi y'all I'm going to be talking about how I started using instagram. So I started using instagram in June 2013 when I finished Grade 7 from my elementary school year. There were the happiest moments I've ever done in my life. Until March 23rd, 2022 I've got an unexpected message from an unknown user who started messaging me from instagram. I didn't know what it was about and it said that I had to change my personal email to a different email, which didn't make any sense. I realize the unknown user has given me a fake email, and I was being tricked, and got hacked at 4:30pm at Surrey campus. I tried to get it back multiple times, with face ID, email, recover code and forgot password, and none of them never worked at all. I tried contacting instagram's security email and there's no success. First of all the help center did not make any sense instagram needs to do better. I saw two post photos that weren't mine. One shows an Iphone home screen of my photo from a via text message from TD bank even though I don't own TD bank from an e-transfer of $10,841. Another post that shows a vehicle from bitcoin $20,000 profit. I already reported both of the photos. Looking at those photos I didn't make really made me feel disgusted that someone can take your identity away from you, and trying to recover my account back from instagram was hard.

Some of my folks started asking me questions about how it got hacked. All I did was change the email and it kicked me out for no reason. At first I thought the email was real but it wasn't. It was a fake email so I couldn't recover it back. That's when I started crying for eight hours. I was very hurt, traumatized and guilty for what I did. Some of my folks would say to make a new account I didn't feel welcome anymore and all of my photos are gone or that my friends may hate me. I wanna have justice to identify who the hackers are and why they control people's social media accounts without even knowing. All of my friends noticed it, especially some of my hated friends.

That is why I want to sue instagram. Ever since the company name changed on November 18th, 2021 to Meta it's gotten worse. On April 18th, 2022, I tried to email with CBC's marketplace and I thought every news station could help me, but no it was a lie. In the summer I wrote an article in SFU's The Peak newspaper published in November. Check out the link in the description below. I did some research on hacked accounts that had been recovered, some were lucky, some aren't so lucky. It makes me feel really bad that other users have gone through the same road as I have. Which would make me kill myself. During the research I found that other social media platforms can also get hacked as well, such as facebook and twitter. My curiosity is why personal accounts with blue check marks can recover so easily and not regular personal accounts? I know the question sounds so stupid. And instagram if you hear this fix your fucking help center for once. Yet again I'm asking for anyone on youtube for some answers to recover my account back. I'm very desperate. I will make another video on tips on how not to be hacked. Thank you for listening to my story and mom. I hope you see this video. I'm sorry but I have to do this, if you're watching this.
